Welcome to the 2009 National Soybean Rust Symposium and Historic New Orleans!

Here, in this little corner of the American South, where European traditions blend with Caribbean influences, the history is as colorful as the local architecture; the food, especially the gumbo, is the stuff of legend. This majestic city is also just a mere 80 miles from where Asian soybean rust was first confirmed in the continental United States.

From "Best Management Practices" with fungicides to cloning the Rpp4 gene, U.S. scientists have discovered much, in just five years, about a once feared invasive pathogen. Much of this work will be highlighted at this historic event. We hope you enjoy the symposium as much as we have enjoyed bringing it to you.

A special Louisiana style thank you goes out to all the sponsors of this year's symposium; many of which have been sponsors since our first gathering in 2005. This symposium would not be possible without your dedicated support.

Anne Dorrance, Ohio State University, 2009 National Soybean Rust Symposium Chair

David Wright, Iowa Soybean Association, Technical Program Committee Chair
